Small villages gradually grew into larger centers, such as Nakbé and El Mirador, characterized by monumental architecture and complex social organization.

Formation of City-States

By the Classic period, around 250 CE, the Mayan civilisation had developed into a network of independent city-states, each ruled by a king or ahau. These city-states, including Tikal, Palenque, Copán, and Calakmul, often engaged in alliances, trade, warfare, and rivalries. The political landscape was characterized by frequent conflicts, with some city-states dominating others for periods of time.
